

DR. SCUDDER IS TO LEAVE ABOUT NOVEMBER 17

Retiring Minister Returns From
His Mainland Vacation and Tells of His Plans

Dr. Doremus Scudder, pastor of the Central Union church, returned in the Matsonia with Mrs. Scudder from a two months' trip to the mainland. About November 17 the doctor expects to leave for his new post in Japan.

Glad to get back to Hawaii; happy for two months' more work with the church here and rugged with the weatherings of a long vacation in Maine, the Honolulu minister talked enthusiastically of his observations in the states, his political beliefs and the new work in Tokio.

He is not one of those persons who talks only to those politicians whose beliefs concur with the speaker, but looked carefully into the Republican and Democratic campaigns during his journey across the American continent, read the newspapers, talked with the rich and poor, and finally came to the conclusion as he sat in the broad lanai overlooking the bay this morning that it would be a mighty close race, with a shade the best of it on both sides.

Americans Appreciate Peace
"I found everywhere I went that the American people were generally glad we are at peace," he said, "and often I have heard the expression, 'He has kept us out of war,' in reference to President Wilson."

On the other hand the pastor believes the strike settlement reduced Wilson's popularity because he was in favor of, and obtained, legislation that helped only a small percentage of railway employees who are already the best paid employees in America.

Practically all German-Americans will vote for Hughes, according to Scudder, not because they love Hughes more but because they like Wilson and wish to rebuke him.

Built Fires in Maine
Dr. and Mrs. Scudder spent nearly all of their vacation at Seal Harbor on Mount Desert Island, Maine. This little piece of mountain peak is one of the easternmost islands of United States, has hills 1500 feet high which are interlaced with a maze of interesting trails and is the rendezvous every summer of students of all kinds, ministers, college presidents, university professors, doctors and so forth. The nights are so chilly there that a fire is necessary indoors for comfort in the evenings. The Honolulu people say it seemed quite unique to sit once more by a big grate fire and roast their toes.

Scudder has made definite arrangements for leaving and will not do so until he meets with the church trustees, but his call to the Union church at Tokio is for November 17 and he hopes to leave at that time.

In Japan the pastor's work in the church, which is partially supported as an Anglo-American community by the missionary societies of America, will be similar to that in Honolulu, but on the outside he will engage in considerable missionary and advancement work in which his knowledge of the Japanese language makes him particularly fitted for the work. He was in Japan before for six years.

Inspected Great Movie Cities
One of the most interesting and instructive phases of Dr. and Mrs. Scudder's trip was the inspection in Los Angeles of the great movie cities, which have sprung up like mushrooms in the last few years to become an indispensable part of the commercial community.

Carrying a letter of introduction from Mrs. Rose Janowitz, now in Honolulu, the Honoluluans were accorded every courtesy by the silent drama people and saw the making of the screen masterpieces from dollar-a-day "props" to five-hundred-thousand-a-year stars.

Mrs. Scudder especially looked into the wonderful work of the Y. W. C. A. as doing there for the thousands of girls who have flocked into Los Angeles in hopes of becoming famous actors, often spending their last dollar to get there only to find they did not have a "screen face." Schools to fit the girls for the movie stage have been started by the Y. W. C. A. as well as bureaus for the employment of the girls in other occupations if they do not suit pictures.

"Honolulu would offer far more attractive settings than California," says Mrs. Scudder, "for motion picture plays, but probably would not have the facilities for obtaining actors and equipment. However, I personally do not believe that a movie city would help the community life of Hawaii."

REGARDS HUGHES' COAST CAMPAIGN AS 'COLORLESS'

C. G. Bockus Expects, However, Johnson's Vote to Pull Ticket-Leader Through

Candidate Charles E. Hughes made a distinctly poor impression in California, but nevertheless, the tremendous vote that Governor Johnson, running for senator, will get should pull the presidential candidate through, comments Charles G. Bockus, who returned today from a business trip to California.

"The general feeling in California was that Hughes made a colorless campaign there—one without much enthusiasm or raising of issues," he says. "The Progressives were not invited in with the Republicans, Johnson was having a tremendously fine campaign for himself at the other side of the state, and there was no cordiality between the Republican organization and the Progressives. Hughes did not get much applause in his speeches. But Johnson's big vote ought to pull him through in California."

"San Francisco is busy and prosperous and even the waiters and cooks strike didn't prevent the cafes and hotels from doing a big business. The hotels seem prosperous."

Questioned concerning the outlook for Minerals Products Company, on which business he went to California, he said he might have a more extended statement to make later, but now would only say that "the prospects are far beyond the original expectations of those interested."

JAPANESE CHAMPION WRESTLER ARRIVES IN HONOLULU; WANTS BOUT

Taro Miyake, champion jiu-jitsu wrestler of Japan, arrived in Honolulu this morning on the Matsonia, with his manager, H. I. Sakai. Miyake will remain here one month if he can secure matches with the leading mat artists of Hawaii. He is anxious to secure a bout with Williams of the 25th Infantry or any other good wrestler.

Miyake has met some of the best wrestlers in the world, using his jiu-jitsu style against the catch-as-catch-can. He has stayed more than one hour with George Hakenschmidt, Zbyco, and in a recent bout with Dr. Rollier, won a money prize for staying 17 minutes. He recently wrestled Ad Santel, champion of the Pacific coast, to a draw. Miyake is anxious to wrestle any man in the islands. He weighs 170 pounds. Those desiring a match may communicate through the columns of the Star-Bulletin.

KAIMUKI GARDEN HOSE DISCOVERED BY POLICE

Kaimuki residents who have missed their garden hose recently might find the same, or pieces of it, at police detective headquarters on Merchant street. Following several complaints from Kaimuki residents that their hose had disappeared Chief McDuffie discovered in junk shops several lengths which he believes has been taken from that district. It is being held at the police station for identification.

LARSEN NOT ONLY ONE TO MEET TRAFFIC LAW

Supervisor Andrew Gallagher of San Francisco was arrested for cutting corners in his auto, almost to a day the same time as Supervisor Larsen of Honolulu was "pulled" for the same offense. Both were discharged on the ground of "extenuating circumstances."

JAMES JUMP HONORED

At a meeting of the Hawaii Tuna Club, held yesterday afternoon, James W. Jump of Los Angeles was accorded a vote of thanks for his publication of "Jumping Around in Hawaii." A resolution was adopted asking the Hawaii Promotion Committee to communicate with Jump and ask for copies which would be used in promotion work here. Members of the committee in the city at present approved of the resolution and a cable will be sent at once asking Jump for the privilege of using the material for promotion.

INSTAL SYSTEM OF TELEGRAPHS WITHIN ARMORY

As the first portion of a telegraph system which is to be built up at the headquarters building of the National Guard of Hawaii, a system was "cut in" to the adjutant's office this morning connecting it with the office of the signal corps captain in the old armory.

Officers stated today that it is the plan to extend the system gradually with Punched-hole rifle range as one portion and a receiving and sending depot to handle regular orders from the downtown office.

In addition to being highly practical as a means of transmitting messages in code form, it will also give the signal corps experience in taking and sending the dotted language. The system is to be modeled after that in daily use at army headquarters.

Maj. L. W. Redington in the adjutant's office and Capt. R. L. Noggle, both of whom used to "pound the brass" in the halcyon days of youth, tried out the wire this morning and pronounced it a success.

Capt. Noggle asked the Star-Bulletin to announce today that the Signal Corps company is badly in need of operators for both the wire and wireless telegraphs. The two rooms upstairs in the Signal corps headquarters are to be fitted with instruments and will soon accommodate 12 men. Capt. Noggle offers it as a splendid chance to learn telegraphy.

TEN ARE DELINQUENT IN PAYMENT FOR NEW BEACH WALK PROJECT

Ten residents of Beach Walk improvement district were delinquent yesterday evening when books were closed in the territorial tax office.

It was stated today, however, that most of these are expected to make payments within the next few days, as several returned this morning from the coast. The total payment to be assessed is $32,818.26. The majority of those who have already paid in did so on the 10 per cent basis.

FAMOUS ARCHAEOLOGIST DIES

Charles Dawson, discoverer of the famous Piltdown skull, died at Lewes, England, aged 52. He was for twenty-two years a local magistrate court clerk.

Dawson, who had been a student of archaeology nearly all his life, found the skull in a gravel pit near Lewes. It is that of a prehistoric woman, and it is supposed by scientists to be the "missing link." The skull was said to be the most important fragment of human remains ever discovered.

The two-edged weapons are found among the earliest specimens of Japanese metal workings.

BRECKONS HAILS MAINE RESULTS AS BRIGHT OMEN

Republican National Committeeman for Hawaii Analyzes Figures on Full Returns

Election results in Maine are hailed by Robert W. Breckons, Republican national committeeman for Hawaii, not only as a victory for the G. O. P. in Maine but as a bright forecast for the national balloting in November.

Referring to the Maine results, on the basis of returns as published this morning, he said:

"The result of the election in Maine certainly affords no consolation to the Democrats, and should be the source of much gratification to the Republicans. The figures indicate strongly that the entire Progressive element has come back into the fold. Four years ago Wilson received 51,113 votes, Taft 26,545 and Roosevelt 48,493. This made the combined Republican vote about 75,000 as against Wilson's 51,000. Two years ago the Democratic candidate for governor was elected with 62,029 as against 58,882 for the Republican candidate, and 18,225 for the Progressive candidate. The combined Republican vote, therefore, was approximately 77,000 votes. This year the Republican candidate for governor will receive probably 78,000 votes, and the Democratic about 64,000. This would not only indicate but almost conclusively prove that the Progressive vote had gone almost wholly back to the Republican party."

"The exact vote for the members of the House of Representatives is not yet at hand, but press reports are to the effect that the Republicans carried three districts by handsome majorities, and that the fourth is in doubt. At present Maine has three Republicans in Congress and one Democrat. In the three Republican districts the vote two years ago was rather close. Hinds in the first district won by less than 600 votes; Peters in the third by about 1100, and Guernsey in the fourth by about 2500. The Democrat, McGillicuddy, in the second, won by more than 5000. It will be seen that in each Republican district the majority for the Republican candidate was increased, and that in the Democratic district very largely decreased, if not wholly wiped out. Senatorial Fight Significant

"The most significant part of the fight was that for senators. This was of course fought out on national issues, and the big guns of both parties invaded Maine in force to speak on these national issues. Johnson, the present Democratic incumbent, is extremely popular and has a large personal following. He is known as one of the most capable of the administration, and has backed the President at every turn. Notwithstanding this, he was beaten badly.

"The election is particularly gratifying to Republicans from the fact that it is the first inroad on the Democratic majority in the senate. A gain of nine Republican senators will give that party the control in the next senate. In the November elections there is scarcely any probability that the Republicans will lose any senator. They are quite confident of winning one in each of the states of Nebraska, Montana, New York, Nevada, Ohio and West Virginia. This with Maine already won, would make a gain of seven, leaving only two more for a majority. In Indiana there are two senators to be chosen, and should the Republicans prevail there, as is probable, this would make the total gain of nine. In addition there are probabilities in other states. In Arizona, where the term of a Democrat expires, the Mexican situation is embarrassing the administration very much, and strong hopes are entertained that a Good Fighting Ground.

"Both Tennessee and Maryland, owing to bitter factional fights amongst the Democrats, constitute good fighting ground for the Republicans. In both of them the present Democratic incumbents were beaten at the primaries, and many more spots resulted. In New Jersey the odds are at least even that the Democrats will send a man to replace Martine, who is having a hard fight for renomination and is being opposed by the administration. Missouri has been within the past few weeks switched from the Democratic to the doubtful column in so far as a senator is concerned, and Reed, the present Democrat, is very much worried. It is not unlikely that in the group of states last mentioned the Republicans will gain two or three. Indeed, the prospects for the Republican control of the senate are exceedingly bright, particularly since the returns from Maine.

"Republican control of the senate would mean much for Hawaii, since it would be impossible to force through a Republican senate any free legislation. The existing duty on sugar would at least be retained."

S. SAKAN, ALLEGED CONSPIRATOR, IS RETURNED TO CITY

S. Sakan, recently indicted with another Japanese on a charge of criminal conspiracy, was brought back to Honolulu today in the Matsonia by City Attorney Arthur M. Brown. Prior to the finding of the indictment Sakan left for San Francisco, but at the inspection of Sheriff Charles H. Rose, was arrested upon his arrival in that city.

The defendants in the alleged conspiracy case were in Judge Ashford's court at 9 o'clock this morning for arraignment, but the matter was continued until September 15. Sakan is now in custody and will remain there until the amount of his bond is fixed by the court.

AIM OF STUDIES AT KAMEHAMEHA FULLY EXPLAINED

President Webster Listens to Discussion and Makes Statement at Alumni Meeting

Although harmonious in tone, a meeting of the members of the Kamehameha Alumni Association, held Monday evening in the clubhouse, Ford street, voiced criticism of the policy now in vogue in the management of the Kamehameha schools, and especially of the clause in the 1916-17 prospectus which says that students of nationalities other than Hawaiian and part-Hawaiian will be admitted to the school if they can be accommodated.

This is according to members of the association who attended the meeting, called for the purpose of discussing the questions of policy and admission of students. Harold Godfrey, the association president, says that President E. C. Webster, who attended the meeting and expressed his views on the questions, declared that he sympathized with the association's views as to the admission of students, and that no students other than Hawaiians or part-Hawaiians would be admitted if the Hawaiians availed themselves of their opportunities as preference would always be given to them.

President Godfrey's statement of what transpired at last night's meeting is as follows:

"It was unanimously agreed by those who attended the meeting that the standard of the Kamehameha schools should be raised, it being pointed out that if this was done the brighter Hawaiian boys would make use of the opportunity to attend the school.

"As it is now, it was stated, these boys are going to other schools, and even graduates are sending their sons to the other schools.

"President Webster claimed that the time is not ripe for raising the standard of the schools and said that the whole question was simply a difference of opinion between the alumni and the school.

"President Webster went further into detail as to the reasons actuating the trustees and faculty for their decisions. He said that geometry and algebra had been dropped from the course of study because it is not the aim of the schools to give a high school course at the present time. He stated that a high school course might be a development of the future, but that for the present the effort is to train the boys and give a practical training which they could put to immediate use upon graduation."

INTEREST RATE ON BONDS SHOWS SIGN OF MIXUP

There seems to be considerable misunderstanding concerning the five per cent which the board of supervisors are advertising will be paid on the municipal bond issue if passed by the people at the November election.

D. L. Conkling started the discussion by declaring that five per cent was too much to pay. Supervisor Logan declared that A. M. Cristy, deputy city attorney, informed him that the board would have to make it five per cent and Cristy says that Logan misunderstood him and that he only said a specific figure had to be set as the advertisement first read, "not over five per cent."

As a result Conkling is still insisting that the rate is too high. Logan says that as the bonds are the first issued by the city, the five per cent might, as well stand, and Cristy is delving through law books to ascertain if it is possible for the board of supervisors to reduce the percentage after the voters have declared in favor of them. The point Cristy hopes to make is that as the bonds have not been offered for sale it may be possible to lower the interest rate before bids are asked for.

POLICEMEN ARE BLAMED BEFORE COMMISSIONERS

Charging policemen at Waipahu with entering his house without a warrant and taking away a Chinese gold bracelet valued at $100, Pang Kiu Kui of Waipahu filed Monday afternoon with the civil service commission the following letter:

"I hereby file charges against Thomas Keala, jailor, and Christian Freitas, police officer, for violation of the law, in that, together with one James Fernandez, without a search warrant or any legal process, on September 9, 1916, they entered my premises at Waipahu, where I keep a store, went through my private effects and either stole or caused the disappearance of a Chinese gold bracelet belonging to my wife of the value of about $100.

FREED UPON ONE CHARGE, JAILED ON YET ANOTHER

Jose Arnesilla went free from police court this morning on a charge of assault only to be re-arrested for larceny and given a six-month sentence. The defendant was a waiter on the Inter-Island steamer Mauna Kea, and the robbery of two passengers, one in July and the other in August, were charged against him.

Shrewd work on the part of Detective Chief Arthur McDuffie brought the more serious accusation to light. By closely questioning the complainant who preferred the charge of assault, following a fight in Honolulu Saturday night, McDuffie's suspicions were aroused and a wireless to Hilo confirmed them.

In Arnesilla's room in Hilo were found shoes stolen on the pier in some mysterious manner following their delivery to a passenger on board by the Manufacturers' Shoe Company. Closer investigations uncovered a suit case containing three suits of clothes and several valuable checks stolen from a Japanese passenger in July and secreted ever since by Arnesilla.

GUARD OFFICERS BACKING PLANS FOR AERO CLUB

As evidence that the National Guard of Hawaii is back of the movement to form an aero club here, Brig. Gen. Samuel I. Johnson stated today that practically every officer of the guard is enrolled as a member.

The general is on the committee of membership, which is now busily at work to collect a large number of names to present at the meeting Thursday night in the senate chamber at the Capitol. Lieut. R. C. Holliday, secretary of the temporary organization, says that the movement is coming along well and that a raising time is expected at the meeting.

Charles R. Forbes, superintendent of public works, who was unable to be at the last meeting owing to illness, was also at work today, enlisting enthusiasm for the work.
